Moslem Direct Action Hurls Wave of Death, Violence Over India

British Clamp Down Stern Military Measures to Halt Demonstrations Against Independence Plan.

BULLETIN

CALCUTTA—(INS)—British Indian police opened fire today upon huge groups of Moslem and Hindu crowds rioting in front of a burning mosque at the close of a blood-stained series of disorders which cost 250 killed and 1,600 injured.

CALCUTTA—(INS)—With 200 persons already dead and hundreds more injured, British military authorities announced today that stern military measures would be taken in an effort to prevent further loss of life in the Moslem "direct action" demonstrations against Britain's plans for independence in India.

The British emphatically denied that martial law would be imposed, but an appeal to both Moslems and Hindus said:

"The military is coming out and a curfew has been imposed. Anyone disobeying orders runs the risk of being shot."

Heavy stone throwing continued in sections of central Calcutta during the afternoon. A row of furniture shops in the center of the city was smashed up and their contents looted

Aroused groups of Hindus and Moslems were forming at street corners, although authorities still were directing special units in collecting bodies of the first day's victims.

In some districts of the rambling, dirty city both Hindus and Moslems have begun to organize "defense parties." They were carrying long, knobby staves.

Police dispersed several groups with gun-fire. Planes of the Royal Air Force flew over the city.

Nurses and doctors worked through the night at hospitals where an estimated 1,500 persons are suffering with injuries from yesterday's "direct action" demonstrations by Moslems protesting the British plans for evolution of Indian independence.

British Tommies were out in full force in an attempt to curb new attempts at looting and arson.

Buses and street-cars were immobilized because of fear that rioters would overturn them, a general practice in Indian demonstrations.

Moslems believe that the British are favoring the All-India Congress party, regarded as the voice for 250 million Indians, mostly Hindus The Moslem League says it speaks for 90 million Moslems.

The riots opened with general looting of shops and homes but soon led to arson. Firemen faced the danger of a conflagration capable of destroying much of the city which, except for its Europeanized downtown sector, largely is comprised of wooden shacks.

An uncounted number of persons were hurled into jails and a curfew was proclaimed to clear the streets for the night.

The home of Dr. B. C. Roy, a prominent Congress party leader and one of Mahandas Gandhi's physicians, was set afire.

The riots and work-stoppage, or "hartal," came simultaneously with an announcement by Congress party President Jawaharlal Nehru that he had accepted a British invitation to form an interim government for India without including the Moslems.

Nehru said his government would meet Moslem "direct action" with governmental "direct action."

FIND PLAN

Bormann Backed 'Free Love' to Build Armies.

BERLIN—(AP)—A plan by Martin Bormann to introduce a vast postwar "free love" and polygamy program, producing army divisions for the future, has been discovered by American military government researchers in old Nazi files.

The plan was disclosed in a memorandum penned by Bormann Jan. 29, 1944, and found among records of the reich ministry of justice. Bormann, deputy fuehrer now missing, figured that after the war the reich would have between 3,000,000 and 4,00,000 unmarried women with no prospects of getting husbands

'TOT' LOCKMAN WINS RELEASE

Bond Set for Nurse Accused of Poisoning Persons Under Her Care.

MADISON, Ind. — (INS) — Mrs Lottie "Tot" Lockman, 62-year-old practical nurse held in connection with the deaths of several persons in her care, was scheduled to be released on bond today.

The state and defense counsel reached an agreement on her release after Dr. Amos C. Michael, Indiana university pathologist, reported he could not state definitely that Mrs. Minnie McConnell of DuPont died of mercury poisoning.

Defense Attorney Joseph Cooper said the defense would waive a preliminary hearing on the charge of Mrs. McConnell's murder, which had been set for next Tuesday.

As a result, no further action will be taken in the case until the October term of the Jefferson county circuit court.

Mrs. Lockman also is accused of the poisoning of Mrs. McConnell's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mayme McConnell, who is recovering in a hospital

Dr. Rollo N. Harger, Indiana university toxicologist, said he had discovered traces of mercury poison in the remains of "Uncle Fred" Giddings, prosperous farmer, who died while Mrs. Lockman was nursing him.

Asked if the whole case might "blow up," Dr. Harger said:

"It could. The whole thing is open."

Informed in her jail cell that Dr. Michael's findings had failed to prove the poisoning charge, Mrs. Lockman said:

"I'm not surprised Right is bound to prevail."

Typhoon Sweeps Over Iwo Jima

TOKYO — (AP) — A typhoon hit Iwo Jima in full fury today, and first reports said it damaged 85 per cent of the buildings on the island to a major extent.

Army officials, in radio contact with the island, said 95 per cent of the power lines were down and most rations other than canned goods had been spilled. No lives had been lost however, and no serious injuries reported as the 115 mile per hour wind lashed the tiny island.

WILL RESUME LAKE STRIKE PEACE TALKS

Curran Says Two of 17 Ship Operating Companies Agree to Talk.

DETROIT—(UP)—Joseph Curran, president of the striking CIO National Maritime Union, said that negotiations would be resumed next week with two of the 17 companies operating ships on the Great Lakes.

Curran revealed that talks would be resumed with Bethlehem Transportation corporation and with Standard Oil Company of Indiana to seek a settlement of the strike which has cut movement of vital iron ore, grain and oil supplies on the lakes.

The NMU chief said that he would leave Detroit tomorrow for talks with Bethlehem in New York and that members of the union negotiating committee would confer with Standard in Chicago on strikers' demands for a 40-hour week.

"Their attitude is slowly changing," Curran said "Both companies have come down from 56 hours to 48 and are ready to talk."

Bethlehem operates 12 ships and Standard Oil has six, and Curran indicated that all were tied up by the three-day-old strike

CHECK SURPLUS SALES FRAUDS

Probers Seek to Ferret Out Abuses By Veterans of Priority Fights.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Investigators for a special house committee today began a searching check of surplus war property sales to determine how far veterans have "abused" their priority rights in buying scarce materials from the War Assets Administration.

Open hearings on this issue will be held early next month, Committee Chairman Roger C. Slaughter, D., Mo, announced. He explained that "much preliminary work" must be done before that time.

The committee goes to Atlanta over the week-end to hold hearings on sales of surplus electronics equipment at Warner Robbins field. There have been charges that the equipment was sold as junk despite the fact that much of it was in good shape.

The veterans issue was brought before the committee by Joseph F. Carroll, director of the WAA enforcement and compliance division. He said that a recent check of a nationwide sale of "washing apparel" cloth disclosed that only eight of 62 veterans who had bid for the material were eligible to purchase it.

All 62 veterans had certified themselves as being in the washing apparel business and therefore eligible to participate in the sale, Carroll said Had they been allowed to go through with the transaction, their priorities would have given them all the material available, he declared.

Carroll added that his WAA division became suspicious of the transactions and checked more than 500 non-veteran bidders. Over 75 per cent of these also had falsely certified themselves as eligible for the sale, he said.

Legionnaires By Scores Leave Today For Meet

Between 200 and 300 Mansfield Legionnaires and their families will attend at least a part of the 28th annual state American Legion convention in Cleveland opening today.

One of the opening features of tonight's activities will be the appearance of the Ashland Legion band. It will play a half-hour concert in each of several hotel lobbies in the downtown area.

Ralph Hughes, commander of Mansfield's McVey post No 16, one of the largest in the state, said scores of Mansfielders were planning to attend tonight's baseball game between Chicago's White Sox and the Cleveland Indians in Municipal stadium

Veterans from almost every city and hamlet in Ohio will converge on Cleveland for the "Victory Convention." The peak of activity is expected Monday when 100,000 convention visitors throng city streets for the mammoth parade.

Seventeen delegates and seven alternates will represent Mansfield, as well as the McVey post band and drum corps.

Alternates are George Kahl, F. B. Fairman, John Grabler, Floyd Tomlinson, Hollis Moorhead and Albert Myers

The majority of delegates and alternates planned to leave around noon They want to register plenty early at headquarters in the Carter hotel.

AUSTRIA WINS PARLEY VOTE

Peace Conference Invites Nation to Present Views On Italian Treaty.

PARIS — (AP) — The European peace conference voted 15 to 6 today, over Russian opposition, to invite Austria to present her views on the pending treaty with Italy and then adopted unanimously a Soviet proposal to invite Iran to be heard as well.

The United States joined Britain in favor of permitting Austria to appear—in the words of the proposal—"to explain its point of view on the treaty with Italy on the same terms as Albania, Mexico, Cuba and Egypt."

Soviet Delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky twice took the floor to express his opposition He contended it was clear that the object was to bring up Austria's "claim to the south Tyrol, a claim which was rejected by the council of foreign ministers." He said there were "many reasons" against the invitation

White Russia, the Ukraine, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia lined up with Russia against the invitation when it came to the vote.

State department Counsellor Benjamin V. Cohen had expressed the United States' hope that "the conference will let Austria be heard" He observed "it would take less time to hear the views of Austria than to debate her right to be heard"

The conference later recessed until Monday.

Marlin Sees Good Omen In Rains at Derby Site

By MARLIN KINDINGER
(Mansfield Soap Box Derby Champion)

AKRON — Yesterday was a typical Mansfield Derby Day, starting out with a rain and then the sun came through the clouds in the afternoon

If it means anything that the weather is a good omen, I should be right among the top racers in the finals tomorrow The competition is going to be plenty tough rom the looks of those other 111 cars but I am sure mine is as good as any of them and I am looking forward to the safety tryouts today on Derby Downs.

Marlin

As soon as I go down the green racing strip I can tell just about where I stand. I have seen races at Zanesville and Akron this year and know the average performance of most of the coasters.

I am rooming on the tenth floor of the Mayflower hotel with Champion Merle Spicker of Martinsburg, W. Va., and Paul Anderson of Madison, Wis. Merle will compete in the Class B Division and Paul in Class A.

Champions came to Akron by auto, bus, train and airplanes but I was the only one to arrive in a Jeep. We were met at the hotel by the official Soap Box Derby band.

My parents, Mr and Mrs Robert Powell, were having a good time yesterday visiting with parents and guests of other Derby champions.

FOOD HIGHER, SAYS PORTER

New Controls Won't Bring All Prices Back Down, States OPA Chief.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Price Administrator Paul Porter today predicted increases in some food prices even if price controls are restored on basic food commodities next Wednesday.

Porter in an address said that he did not know what the price decontrol board would do about restoring ceilings on livestock, grain, dairy products, soybean and cottonseed products But, he added:

"In any case the amount of money that can be paid out as food subsidies, in the event of restoration of some food controls, has been drastically reduced.

"Reductin or elimination of subsidies is bound to result in price adjustment for some foods"

The decontrol board, meanwhile, dropped the curtain on the submission of evidence and began closed sessions to determine whether ceilings should remain off the basic food commodities after Tuesday.

A board spokesman said that its members, who conferred Friday with OPA, agriculture and state department officials, probably would not meet with any other interested groups before they reach a decision

He said that the board members would meet today, tomorrow and Monday in all-day sessions in an effort to reach a conclusion by the Tuesday midnight deadline, set by the new price control act. Board Chairman Roy L. Thompson said the board would reveal its decision Tuesday night.

STAYS DAMP

Weather to Punctuate Humid Day With Showers.

Mansfielders face a weekend of humid weather punctuated by thundershowers. The forecast for Sunday is partly cloudy and warm with showers in the evening.

Temperatures over the state during the past 24 hours ranged from a low of 67 at Hayesville to a high of 88 at Toledo The reading at Longview station in Mansfield at noon was 72.

Forecasters expect the mercury to climb Sunday but see little letup in either the humidity or precipitation.

HUNT NASTY GUY

BEATTYVILLE, Ky — (AP) — Sheriff Shelby Kincaid said his officers were pressing a hunt today for Ben Chapman, a 30-year-old war veteran accused of collaring and chaining his wife to a bedpost every night over a period of months and whom the sheriff quoted as saying "You'll never take me alive."

COAL OUTPUT UP

WASHINGTON — (INS) — U. S. bituminous coal production for the week ended Aug 10 was estimated today at 12,300,000 net tons by the national coal association. Production for the corresponding week of 1945 was 11,490,000 net tons.

Lutz Asked To Rule On Liquor Ban

'Do I Have to Dry Up Fair?' Sheriff Inquires.

Richland County Sheriff Frank E. Robinson said today that he would ask County Prosecutor Theodore Lutz for an opinion as to whether he must place a ban on sale of beverages stronger than 3.2 beer during the county fair.

Meanwhile, the Associated Press from Columbus quoted an "informed source" as saying the State Liquor Control department may postpone enforcement of the 1888 anti-liquor law pending a court decision on its constitutionality.

The law, declared valid yesterday by Atty. Gen. Hugh S. Jenkins, forbids over-the-bar sale of liquor within two miles of a state or county fair, such as the Richland exposition due to open Thursday.

Robert M Sohngen, state liquor director, is expected to announce Monday whether his department will enforce the 58-year-old statute in view of a suit filed by Columbus tavern operators challenging its constitutionality.

Sheriff Robinson said that he "didn't know the (1888) law existed." He said all he knew about it was what he had "read in the newspapers' and that therefore, he would seek Lutz's advice concerning its enforcement.

Mansfield's Police Chief Meade K. Bates said his department would not enforce the law unless specifically ordered to do so by state officials.

"If we're requested to help enforce it we will," he added.

A Froggin' Go Five-- Yum, Yum!

Fried frog legs are on the menu tonight for five army, navy and marine recruiters stationed in Mansfield

After office hours yesterday, Lt Thomas Blackburn, Sgts Roland Hilborn and Robert Morse of the army, Sgt. Ray Baumann of the marine corps, and CCM John Daley of the navy embarked on a "frogging expedition." They captured 20 frogs and returned with at least one "aching back"

Tonight at 7 p m., ex-marine Cecil Wehinger, 336 Hammond avenue, will be the host at his home to a frog fry de luxe

For the information of future "froggers," the successful hunt was staged near Galion

READY TO FIGHT

CIO Prepares for Battle In November Elections.

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The CIO set out today to clean up all its current strikes and avoid others before the November elections to help win its fight for strict price controls and a congress more favorable to labor.

CIO President Philip Murray, President Walter Reuther of the United Auto Workers (CIO), and other union leaders turned their attention to this task as a follow-up to the CIO's new drive against price rises.

ESTIMATE LOSS AT MORE THAN THREE MILLION

Rain Heaviest In 109-Year History of City's Weather Bureau.

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—Fair weather for the St. Louis area was forecast by the weather bureau today as estimates of damage caused by record torrential rains were revised sharply upward.

Occasional thundershowers were predicted for last night, but did not materialize. The new forecast was welcomed by residents of the area as they started to repair damage to their homes and businesses.

Damage to property and crops was expected to exceed $3,000,000. Flash floods, caused by the heaviest downpour in the 109-year history of the St. Louis weather bureau, made more than 2,000 families homeless in the area, halted some industrial operations and resulted in possibly two deaths.

Bearing the brunt of the storm were St. Louis, St. Louis county, Belleville, Ill, Washington Park, Ill., and other nearby Illinois communities.

Communities Isolated.

Damage in Belleville was estimated by police at $500,000. A similar figure was set for Washington Park in unofficial estimates. Both of these communities were isolated for many hours when nearby creeks overflowed.

The total rainfall since Monday in St. Louis was 14.97 inches, highest on record. The precipitation for the month now stands at 20.25 inches, also a new record for August. Violent thunderstorms occurred Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Two St. Louis boys still were missing and feared drowned.

Drawn in Whirlpool.

The missing boys were believed to be Orel Herren, 18, and James Murphy, 15. Witnesses saw them swimming in a flooded street at the height of Thursday night's storm. Later they were swept by a whirlpool of water toward a manhole Firemen and police searched unsuccessfully for them.

Basements of homes and business buildings have been flooded, transportation crippled, telephone service hampered, industry in several cases affected, and many landslides and washouts reported.

The storms have been so severe the past two days that within minutes after they began walls of water from two to eight feet high swept through the streets.

The Mississippi river at St. Louis rose 12 8 feet in 24 hours and reached a stage of 19.6 feet yesterday. Army engineers, however, did not fear any serious flood conditions.

Polio Spreading In Twin Cities

MINNEAPOLIS —(INS)— An increase of 71 new cases in the last 24 hours brought Minnesota's infantile paralysis toll today to 1,326 cases with 90 deaths already reported

Of the new cases, 26 were in Minneapolis and seven in St. Paul.

EX-POWS FORM FIRST CLUB HERE

Bound together by mutual experiences in Jap and German prisoner of war camps, Mansfield ex-POWs have formed a club, believed to be one of the first of its kind in the U S. How they got together and the souvenirs they brought back make interesting reading in tomorrow's News-Journal

A Mansfield "teen-ager," aroused by the opinion of adults on juvenile delinquency, speaks out on the problems confronted by her generation—you'll find her letter in Sunday's issue.

Take Charm Cue From the French

By BETTY CLARKE
(AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor)

If you want to be slimmer, trimmer and younger looking, take a cue from the French, says Helena Rubinstein, who has just returned from Paris. You'll have to eat less and walk more but it'll be worth it. She says:

"During the war, when there was very little to eat, French women learned to skip canapes and heavy foods. They had to walk to their daily marketing for what little food they could scare up and this helped trim their figures to slyphlike proportions."

Today the average Frenchwoman is prettier than she ever was except in respect to her skin. It is not as transparent as it used to be, because of the lack of soap and good creams during the war, Mme. Rubinstein says.

But generally she is getting her skin back to normal and there is a trend away from makeup for daytime wear. She is skipping the rouge pot and going in for the "pale look." with lighter powders, though lipstick is still dark but bright. For evening there are exotic green and heliotrope powders, however. The heavy bronze tan which was so popular during wartime is no longer the vogue and the cafe au lait tan has replaced it.

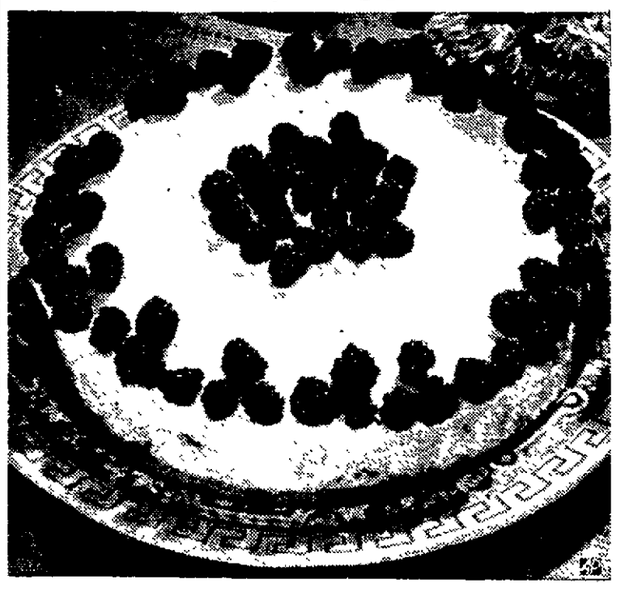
The pompadour is still being worn in France, but though it is very high in front, the back hair is now worn down. Hair is every color of the rainbow because of the cheap dyes still being used.

The average French girl, however, is one up on the American girl in respect to fashion, says Mme. Rubinstein. The poorest French shop or factory girl is far better dressed than the American white collar girl because she calls upon her own ingenuity to whip up costumes out of pieces of materials that would be discarded here as rags.

A French girl can make her own shoes. She uses wooden platforms and fabric tops and fancy buttons to snap them closed. She tailors her own clothes and would rather not be seen than wear something unfashionable.

She may have one dark skirt in her wardrobe but she'll have several expertly tailored jackets to wear with it. This, too, says Mme. Rubinstein, is where the American girl could take a cue. There is no excuse for her not being able to sew, if she cannot afford to buy well-made clothes.

Party Supper



BLACKBERRY REFRIGERATOR CAKE . . . Tasty.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS

Even in the hottest days of summer, there come times when we really want to invite people to a simple supper. You can't stop entertaining entirely just because it's hot. At the same time, you want to do as little work as possible.

The two dessert suggestions we offer you for this summer party meal are perfect for summer, because they involve no contact with the stove whatever. You can get them ready in the morning and bring them forth when ready, cold and sweet and delectable—and requiring no sugar, either. The secret is sweetened condensed milk.

You must have one hot dish, though, and here's a really festive one which requires very little fuss or cooking time and is good served with hot noodles and green garden peas.

Shrimp Creole.

2 tablespoons fat
1 teaspoon kitchen bouquet
¼ cup finely diced onion
¼ cup finely diced celery
1½ pounds cooked shrimp
¾ cup catsup
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 large green pepper

Melt fat in 9-inch frying pan. Add kitchen bouquet and blend thoroughly. Add onions and celery and saute for 10 minutes or until golden brown. Add shrimp. Saute over moderate heat for five minutes. Blend together and add catsup and vinegar. Slice green pepper into one-inch pieces and add. Bring to a boil and simmer eight minutes. Taste and add salt, if needed. Serve on hot cooked noodles.

Peach Refrigerator Cake.

1⅓ cups (15 ounce can) sweetened condensed milk
¼ cup lemon juice
1 cup sliced peaches
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
24 chocolate wafers

Blend sweetened condensed milk and lemon juice. Stir until mixture thickens. Add slived peaches. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Line narrow, oblong pan or spring form cake pan with waxed paper. Cover with fruit mixture. Add layer of wafers, alternating in this way until fruit mixture is used. Finish with layer of wafers. Chill in refrigerator 6 hours or longer. To serve, turn out on small platter and carefully remove waxed paper. Cut in slices and serve plain or with whipped cream.

Household Hints

Cheese is a grand accompaniment for baked pears. Bake pears in a syrup of half honey to save your precious sugar. They'll have a lovely glaze.

Cream sauce stretches cooked vegetables so they will go nearly twice as far. The stock in which the vegetable is cooked is used as part of the liquid called for in the sauce.

A family favorite: Ripe pears and creamy cottage cheese. There's a simple salad combination with myriad possibilities for variations. Use your own imagination.

A FIGHT TO SEE

Without regard for wrong or right,
The neighbors like to see a fight.

—Old Mother Nature.

Anyway that is how it seems. The quickest, surest way of getting the neighbors together is to start a fight. It is true of mankind and it is just as true of the furred and feathered folk. And how the news of a fight spreads! Two folks with no one else near start to quarrel. In what seems like no time at all the neighbors are there to watch and listen and very likely take sides in a matter of which they know nothing. All the world is that way it seems.

When Mr Blacksnake started to climb a grapevine that led up into a tree to the summer home of Mrs. Happy Jack Squirrel no one was in sight, not even Mrs. Happy Jack. It was because she wasn't in sight that he was climbing. Temptation had proven too much for him. He suspected something. He suspected that there were babies in that nest, very small babies.

"They must be just the right size to be swallowed easily," thought he as he climbed. It was a pleasant thought for he was hungry.

He climbed easily, though how, without arms or legs, he can climb trees puzzles many folks. He climbed quickly for he was in a hurry. He wanted to get to that nest and down again before Mrs. Happy Jack returned. If she should find him there he would have to fight and a tree was no place in which to fight. He wouldn't mind a fight with Mrs. Happy Jack on the ground, but in a tree it would be a different matter.

He was halfway to the nest when from another tree Mrs. Happy Jack leaped across to a branch just above him, raced along it and down the trunk to meet him. One look at her told him that there was no fear in her and that she was fighting mad. The wise thing for him to do would be to retreat, and do it in a hurry. But if he failed to reach that nest now he never would have another chance. He knew he couldn't kill Mrs. Happy Jack. She was too big, too strong, for that. He could bite her, but his teeth were small, while her teeth were long and sharp. She could hurt him far worse than he could hurt her by biting. But if he could wrap himself around her perhaps he could hold her helpless. He couldn't squeeze her very hard, for he is not a constrictor, as Snakes that squeeze to death those they catch are called, although many folks think he is. But he could hold her uncomfortably tight.

Mrs. Happy Jack dashed at him and bit him on the neck. It hurt. It made him fighting mad. They were both fighting mad. Before he could get hold of her she had jumped out of his reach. Then she was back, biting, trying to get hold of him by the neck, and succeeded no better than he succeeded in getting hold of her.

It seemed as if they had no more than begun that fight up there between the ground and the sky when all the neighbors were there to watch; for it was a fight to see. Sammy Jay, Blacky the Crow, all the feathered folk from the Old Orchard, Chatterer the Red Squirrel and others of the Green Forest folk were there, most of them screaming excitedly and all of them urging Mrs. Happy Jack on. Some even darted at Mr. Blacksnake as if to peck him, but none quite dared do it. They just threatened.

Mr. Blacksnake decided that if he could reach that big nest he could fight better there, but try as he would he couldn't get past Mrs. Happy Jack. She kept between him and the nest. Once he knocked her off a branch. She fell but caught a branch below and was back facing him before he had a chance to get higher.

At last Happy Jack came racing through the treetops. He had been some distance away when he heard the racket and started in a hurry to see what the fuss was about. Mr. Blacksnake saw him coming. Two to one was one too many. He suddenly lost his appetite for baby Squirrels. He slid to the ground in a hurry, so fast that he was lost sight of almost at once. Mrs. Happy Jack didn't try to follow. She darted to her home and in, to make sure that all was well there. Then she came out and drove Happy Jack out of that tree. He didn't know what to make of it. It was upsetting. It made him peeved and uphappy. He still didn't know the reason for Mrs. Happy Jack's behavior. He hadn't been as good a guesser as Mr. Blacksnake.

The next story: "Happy Jack's Return."

NO STANDARD type of hand is more deadly to the defenders' honors than a good two-suiter. Whenever one of the opponents has given strong indications that he has a big hand of that kind, it is risky to double him unless you have some very unusual holding yourself. Your honors in either of the other two suits are likely to get bumped off. Also any honors you hold in the long suit not selected as trump. And another thing to think about, if you ponder the doubling of a slam, is that you gain very little because of the double if you set it only a trick or so, but lose plenty by it if the declarer makes his contract. Furthermore, your double may warn him how to play.

West could have kicked himself after he took one trick with the diamond K and then had his A ruffed. Seeing that doubleton in the dummy's spades, he was reasonably sure his four good-looking cards in that suit would prove of no avail, which is the way it turned out. And of course his nice-appearing secondary club honors proved worthless as well.

After ruffing the second trick, South scored his spade tops, ruffed a spade with dummy's heart 8, returned to his own hand with a club and ruffed a second spade with the heart A. That, of course, set up his fifth spade. So he had nothing more to do but lead a trump to his own hand and lay down the rest of the "pulling trumps first."

West could not soundly have expected to have any chance whatsoever of setting that contract, bid as it was, more than one trick. His double would have given him only an extra 100 points if that had occurred. As it was, the double gave South an extra 120 for tricks, plus 50 for contract, and might have helped South in his playing plan.

Your Week-End Question.

Under what circumstances should you overtake your partner's winning high card lead with a higher honor?

A dessert you can't afford to miss is fresh pear pie, warm and spicy, served with nippy American cheese. It's a partnership that's epicurean. You make pear pie just as you do apple pie except you can use less sugar because pears are rich in levulose, a sugar that tastes extra sweet.

Looking for a gift for a girl who is going away to school this fall? College girls are beauty wise and want to be well-groomed day in and night out. But the small beauty items can eat a big hole in a college girl's purse, so she will appreciate a gift that will be useful, as well as attractive.

Bathing supplies, of course are most important. Bath salts help to soften and scent the water and fill the room with a faint fragrance. A new package of one brand of bath salts may be tacked conveniently to the wall and when empty, the container may be used to hold letters or messages. Containing a total of eight bath sticks, it costs only $1.

Another set that will be appreciated is the prom set featuring guest-sized items. It contains soap, toilet water, a tablet sachet, and a small dusting powder with puff. A similar set is the quadrill box which contains soap, toilet water, talcum, and shachet. The prom set sells for around $1.50, while the quadrille box is priced at $1.25. Both are convenient for weekend travel.

Sachets in various types of sets are available at one local store, priced from 50 cents up. Some are in clever little wire containers that can be used for pin dishes on the dresser after the sachet is removed.

Shower slippers, made out of one of the new plastic materials are another useful item. They are in blue or green colors and are in a flat case that can be tucked away in the corner of a suitcase for week-end traveling. Cost around $1.

G. E. PICNIC

BUCYRUS — Between 350 and 400 employes of General Electric company and their families are scheduled to attend the all-day picnic and annual outing at Ammiller part this afternoon. Softball games, contests and other entertainment has been arranged.

Cans of food packed in tin and stored for 92 years on an island in the Arctic ocean were found to be in good condition. The food had been cached on the island in 1852 by an English expedition searching for the Northwest Passage.

New York Notes

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

GOSSIP IN GOTHAM — The Johnny Coys (she's dancer Dorothy Babbs) are knitting tiny garments. . . . Jack Briggs, Ginger Rogers' husband, flew in from the coast and stayed just long enough to see "Annie Get Your Gun" before flying back. Broadwayites are attributing great significance to this hasty visit. . . . Col. Phil Cochran and pretty Pamela Drake have tossed another log on the flame after several months of chilly weather. . . . Clark Gable is reported sour on "The Hucksters" and enthusiastic about doing "Christian of the Bounty."

Gloria Swanson's new romance is a Brooklyn navy captain, intimates say. . . . Hurd Hatfield didn't make that picture in France, after all. The producers couldn't raise backing. . . . Walter Slezak is bedded with virus pneumonia.

Horrors-at-the-Waldorf department: Winthrop Rockefeller got a bad table at the Starlight Roof the other night, and is irked with MGM's favorite hotel. . . . Jack Beutel, who cuddles with Russell in "The Outlaw," is doing same with Peggy Maley in private life. . . . Oddly enough, blissful bridegroom Moss Hart's new play deals with the importance of divorce.

Tops in Town: Betty Reilly's de luxe disc of "Estoy Acabando." . . . Madame Konstantin's fascinating performance in the Hitchcock spy thriller, "Notorious." . . . The way Tony Ramano sings "Prisoner of Love" at the Roxy. . . . Rita De Soto at El Chico.

Employes at a local tobacco company refer to "The Hucksters" as "that thing." When talking in whispers about their employer they warn each other: "Be careful today; he's thinking about that thing." . . . Much of Dean Jagger's footage in "Sister Kenny" has been left in the cutting room because of the studio's desire to make the romance angle less important. . . . Dave Wolper is trying to lure George Raft east to play a week in "Dead End" at the Saratoga Spa theater.

Singer Margaret Whiting is the envy of all her friends. She finished her Christmas shopping last week, fulfilling a vow she made last year when she got trapped in the last minute rush.

Wonder if Max Gordon, whose office announced that only society girls were wanted for his "Park Avenue," knows that several Brooklyn lasses are in the cast already? . . . Mark Hellinger arrives from the coast on Thursday and will be partied at Toots' immediately. . . . Marsha Hunt's husband, Robert Presnell, jr., gave her an unusual birthday present—a play written especially for her. . . . Bess (Miss America) Myerson is trying to get into a Broadway show.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

OPEN STANDPIPE BIDS

BUCYRUS—Four bids for construction of the standpipe at Warren and East streets were received Friday from the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel company, $77,460 and the Chicago Bridge and Iron company, Chicago, $74,790 for the steel work. Bids for the concrete and landscaping were Ohio Engineering company, Bucyrus, $19,730, and the Miller Thompson company, Detroit, $17,750. Contracts will be awarded next week.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, August 18.

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds augury of a degressed or despondent state of mind, with signs of discouragement at the plans and purpose under way, a condition instigated by a possibly tired mind or a lowered physical vitality from overwork or excitement.

With Sabbath rest and relaxation, with attention to a lead from "the still sma' voice," creative urges may restore optimism.

Those whose birthday it is should not give into a feeling of depression regarding lagging plans or objectives, already established on a foundation of enduring and stable worth.

The surge of depression might be due to lowered vitality, mental weariness or obscurity which should melt with the essential period of rest and relaxation.

A child born on this day should have splendid basis for enduring performance in life, equipped for a practical and constructive life.

For Monday, August 19.

Monday's astrological forecast is for a maintenance of the status quo, with plans and projects already in construction reaching forward to further development.

Under current planetary vibrations it is advisable to safeguard the health and to indulge in plenty of rest and recuperative practices.

Those whose birthday it is are advised to take advantage of a time for letting down of aggressive or strenuous activities, seeking recuperation in diversion, pleasant and relaxing social, domestic and romantic distractions.

A child born on this day is excellently endowed to solid and enduring tasks, provided it is not overworked or strained by too taxing programs and aspirations.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

A recent candidate for president of the United States (he didn't make it) made an unexpected stop on his transcontinental campaign tour, and his "ghosts" had to whip up a speech for him in jig-time.

He grabbed it, stepped on to the observation platform, and began in ringing tones: "Fellow citizens! It is an unexpected thrill to greet my friends in this typical American town, so rich in history and tradition. Slip in some corny joke here . . ."

The townspeople thought this was pretty funny, but friendly reporters agreed not to file the story.

The Zion Herald front-paged the story of the city girl who was determined not to show her ignorance of farm life and manners. A Zion housewife put a dish of honey before her at the breakfast table. "Oh," she observed carelessly, "I see you keep a bee."

An American tourist refused to be too greatly impressed with the masterpieces of the Louvre. "We've got plenty of priceless canvasses in the U. S., too," he declared. "I know," said his guide. "Rembrandt painted seven hundred pictures in his lifetime, and America has all ten thousand of them."

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, AUGUST 17, 1946

Drive carefully tomorrow—somebody DIDN'T last Sunday . . . remember?

The only difference seems to be that the former illegal black market meat prices have now become legal.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation reports no bank failures in the country in the last 27 months—all seeming to have more money than they know what to do with.

Are Prices Really Increasing?

WHILE what are called "price increases" are being announced from time to time—in addition to those already in effect—it appears that these are not REALLY "price increases" after all, but only seem so to those whose income has not kept pace with the diminishing purchasing power of the dollar.

A reader points out, for instance, that butter at 80 cents a pound is the same as a 40-cent price for those whose income has doubled since they bought butter at 40 cents a pound—and so on, proportionately.

Price jumps of from 15 to 50 per cent, it would seem, should be considered inconsequential, since the dollar has shrunk to less than half of its former purchasing power. All who are adversely affected are widows whose husbands left them income from life insurance or securities; aging men who are living on their savings; store clerks; bank clerks; teachers; office employes, and a host of minor employes who are essential to business, industrial, transportation and communications operations.

These, it is calculated, constitute approximately 75 per cent of the national adult population, and represent "the masses" who have had little or no increase in income.

Thus far all the effective "pressure groups" have acted in behalf of aggressive minorities. Sometime, somehow, consideration must also be given to the welfare of the majority.

Two Miles for a Drink On Fair Days

RULING by Attorney General Hugh S. Jenkins that an Ohio law passed in 1888 bans sale of any stronger intoxicant than 3.2 beer within two miles of a state or county fair is interesting—if not convincing.

The unconvincing part is that which withholds application of the ancient law from state-operated liquor stores, which the attorney general explains by saying that "the state is not bound by the terms of a general statute unless such statute in express terms includes the state," which gives "the state" a considerable edge on other dispensers of hard liquor while fairs are in progress.

Of course, back in 1888, the lawmakers had no idea that the dignified "state" was to eventually become its own chief bartender, and thus failed to use the "express terms" to the omission of which Mr. Jenkins directs attention.

Since this same law has been on the statute books for 58 years, without anything having been done about it, it may be wondered what attitude will now be taken by municipal enforcement officials—who, after all, seem to decide which laws they shall enforce and which they shall ignore.

Big Week-End for Mansfield Boy

THIS is a great week-end for 15-year-old Marlin Kindinger, the Mansfield boy who won in the Soap Box Derby here a couple of weeks ago and who is now in Akron to compete in the national finals.

Whether he wins or loses in the finals, the experience gained in planning and building his racing car, and the determination required in entering and winning the local contest, will prove valuable in later years, and the traits of initiative and industry which this boy, and other Soap Box Derby contestants have shown, may well be presented as an example for some considerably older persons.

If the same principles which are applied to taking a creditable part in such an event, or in other boyhood sports, continue into the activities of manhood, a forecast of success can be safely made.

'Dozing Off' While Driving a Car

THE PROMINENCE of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is accountable for the nation-wide "play-up" of a traffic crash that would have otherwise received no more than community mention.

It is a good thing, however, that the central figure in this exhibition of careless driving was of sufficient prominence to bring the unhappy incident to national attention, as this may have the effect of impressing some other motorists with the importance of keeping wide awake while operating a motor vehicle on the highway.

Mrs. Roosevelt, it appears, quite frankly admitted to the police that "she dozed off at the wheel," after which her car crossed into the line of approaching traffic and crashed head-on into another automobile, after which it was thrown into the path of a third car, resulting in injuries—fortunately not serious—to four persons other than Mrs. Roosevelt, whose injury was described as no more than "a couple of bumps on the head."

It has been said before, but it seems to need saying again: "Behind the wheel of a moving automobile isn't a safe place to take a nap."

Pathway To the Electric Chair

JUST BEFORE a 36-year-old convicted murderer was executed in Boston Friday, he frankly admitted: "I lived a life that called for this. I am willing to pay for it."

As is so frequently the case, it is not related just how it came about that this particular man "lived a life" that led finally to the electric chair, but the formula is so familiar that any observant person can fill in the details—from the period of undisciplined childhood, through minor juvenile offenses, on into more serious crimes, and eventually to murder.

This story has become so common to American life that apparently little is thought about it—during the early chapters.

According to J. Edgar Hoover: "For every school teacher in this country there are seven persons engaged in crime" —despite the general impression that neither of those vocations pays very well.

One observer comments: "Nothing is quite so fleeting as that moment when a banana is no longer too green and not yet overripe.

THE VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

Communist Influence Is Suspected In Strike To Block Foreign News

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—A small but highly significant strike serves once again to raise the issue of labor politics. This is the strike of the CIO's American Communications Association against Press Wireless, Inc.

It is not so much the strike itself that is significant but the fact that the union has declared a sympathy embargo on all press messages entering this country from abroad. That means that press messages sent through the other communications companies are stopped at the water's edge.

That this should come in the middle of the peace conference is hardly an accident. The members of the union would seek to use their bargaining power at a strategic moment.

But consider the effect of an embargo applied to all communications services just when we are most anxious to follow the ins and outs of an important international meeting.

Given the resourcefulness of American newspapermen, the news, or most of it, will probably get through. Conceivably, however, an all-inclusive communications union could shut down our sources of information. Conceivably, too, this could influence the course of world affairs at a critical moment.

The American Communications Association is one of the CIO unions which are reported to have strong Communist influence. Such a union, with its hold over communications at sea and on shore, would be a perfect Trojan horse for the kind of infiltration practiced by the Communists.

The cry of freedom of the press has sometimes been used indiscriminately by publishers in the past. But this strike seems, in principle, a real threat to the right of Americans to know and to print.

It is of a piece with the refusal of the International Typographical Union to permit a newspaper to carry a want ad asking for non-union printers. These are dangerous precedents.

The National CIO takes the point of view that its member unions are autonomous and that, therefore, they are free to go their own way.

Sooner or later, however, the question of Communist domination and Communist influence is bound to be raised in such a way that the national organization cannot look around it.

A major split is occurring in the CIO's united furniture workers. In Grand Rapids, Mich., three officials have resigned, calling the union "Communist dominated." They are trying to take 2,500 members of Local 415 into the AFL's upholsterers international union.

Wholesale defections are reported from still another CIO union. Under the leadership of Abram Flaxer, the United Public Workers of America took an aggressive pro-Soviet line. At the national convention of the union, a resolution was put through denouncing American "interference" in the affairs of other nations. This was called "imperialism." An effort to amend the resolution to make it cover similar interference by Russia was brushed aside.

The United Public Workers, made up of federal, state and county employes, insisted on the right to strike against the government. This caused such an uproar in congress that riders were attached to appropriation bills forbidding the use of any government funds to pay the salaries of employes belonging to an organization that stood on the right to strike.

This brought a quick shift in the union line. But it was not quick enough to prevent what is reported within the CIO to be a serious loss of membership.

When union members find that they are being used for political ends that have no relation to wages and working conditions, they will rebel. The phrase "wages and working conditions" covers a lot of territory. It covers, for example, political action to combat inflation.

But by no stretch of the imagination can it be made to cover action to aid the foreign objectives of Soviet Russia, particularly when those objectives are contrary to the interests of this country. That is a bit of common sense that CIO executives would do well to remember.

The AFL'S commercial telegraphers' union is certain to benefit if the ACA pushes its membership out on a long political limb. That is one advantage inherent in competing unionism. When the companies are narrowed down to one big company and the unions to one big union, then we will be in for trouble that will bear the label of one totalitarianism or another.

Nation Loses By Bob LaFollette's Defeat.

WASHINGTON—How much of a loss to the senate is the defeat of Senator Robert M. La Follette in Wisconsin was demonstrated by the sincere expressions of regret from both Republicans and Democrats with whom he served.

This is a tribute to his character, his integrity, his recognized ability as a legislator, his innate idealism, and his political independence, a heritage from his father, the late "Fighting Bob" La Follette.

"Young Bob," as he was known affectionately for so long about the senate, was trusted and respected even by those who disagreed with him. For he came to his judgments on national measures after careful and exhaustive investigation.

The "heart" in his approach to national problems was always apparent, as it was in the courageous fight for his convictions. His 20-year career in the senate, which began at an early age as his father's successor there, is proof of the value and power of political independence.

It is hoped that this defeat—his first—is only an interruption, and that he will find other opportunities for public service for which he is so well equipped.

A political independent and irregular, Bob La Follette was never a party man. He wore the label of one of the two major parties, the Republican, briefly at the beginning of his senate career, and finally for a few months as a candidate for re-nomination.

During the New Deal regime he was an advocate of most of the social and economic reforms of President Roosevelt, for he and his father and brother had pioneered for them years before and instituted many of them in their state. But he was never identified as a Democrat.

For a good part of his career he wore the label of the Wisconsin Progressive party which he founded with his brother Philip, who was three times governor of Wisconsin in the 30's. This party had dwindled away in recent years with the lifting of depression and the advent of better times, such as had other similar movements on what was once known as "the radical frontier."

Bob La Follette this year sought refuge under the Republican party label once again, after years as a dissenter. It was one of his infrequent resorts to political opportunism that disappointed some of those who had helped to create the once militant and effective Progressive party. He took the chance and made the choice to continue his political career.

One of his outstanding achievements in the senate came this year when, just before congress adjourned, he put through the congressional reorganization bill that he sponsored jointly with Rep. Monroney (D., Okla.), despite forecasts of failure.

Bob La Follette knows the country and its economy intimately and the forces that move it, for good or evil.

One of his most valuable contributions, and a part of his education and that of the nation, was the investigation he directed for many months into the abuse of civil liberties by great corporations which used force, violence and intimidation against workers. That was a shocking revelation that shook congress into reforms.

His knowledge, experience and ability should continue to be available in public service.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Shadow of Inflation Still Darkens Future as Prices Trend Upward

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEVER in peacetime had the nation experienced such a boom. America's mass production lines were emerging from the snarl of reconversion, moving toward that full capacity goal in peacetime production that is the dream of economists. Consumer demand, pent up by four war years, was far ahead of supply. Foreign markets were calling, too, for American products. Jobs were plentiful. So was money; it was easy to get and easy to get rid of.

Reconversion Director John R. Steelman buttressed the rosy picture with statistics in a Victory day report summarizing achievement during the first year of peace after World War II.

The nation has achieved substantially full employment, he said. American industry created 5,000,000 new jobs raising civilian employment to 58,100,000 as against 51,200,000 in the slump that followed V-J Day.

The annual production rate of goods and services for civilians spurted more than $30,000,000,000 since Japan's surrender, the report stated, while total construction has jumped almost four times. Nearly 250,000 new businesses were established during the last half of 1945.

Record Individual Income.

As expected, profits of heavy industry sagged sharply because of the loss of war contracts and the high cost of reconversion but in the rest of the economy profits after taxes hit the highest levels on record.

"Total income payments to individuals today equal or exceed the war peak of $163,000,000,000," said Steelman, "and they have climbed more than 60 percent over the peacetime peak of $100,000,000,000 set in 1941."

But Steelman warned that the threat of inflation still cast a shadow over the future. He urged public support of ceiling prices and restrained buying as a brake on price spirals.

"We must not mistake," he said, "temporary gains in production, employment and income for permanent stability."

Rough Spots.

Despite the high national level, there still were rough edges in many fields. Scarcity of raw materials hampers production of many consumer items. In the case of automobiles, many other goods using steel, some types of clothing, and housing, prewar volume of output still has not been reached.

Meanwhile, in Washington the new Price Decontrol Board listened to representatives of industry, labor, agriculture and consumer groups argue for or against restoration of price controls on meats, dairy products, grains, cottonseed, soybeans and hundreds of products made from them.

By August 21, the three-man board is to decide whether to bring back OPA curbs or kill them permanently. If it fails to act, ceilings automatically go back into effect.

At Home

Vet Revolt Spreading.

The GI influence in politics, which flared so explosively in battle of bullets and ballots at Athens, Tenn., is spreading particularly in the South of the one-party political system and deep-seated traditions.

In Georgia, every fifth member of the newly elected legislature is a veteran of World War II. In Georgia, too, a committee of veterans is collecting funds to fight the county unit system in the courts.

In Batesville, Ark., a World War II Veterans Better committee sought removal of some officials and planned court action against an unspecified number of residents whom it accused of voting fraudulently in the July 30 primaries.

In Alamo, Tenn., ex-servicemen plan to form the nucleus of a national political organization to "wipe out machine politics." Leaders of the movement declared their first concern would be in Tennessee and Arkansas, then the South and finally coast to coast.

A Community Problem.

One of every 17 male adult Americans is an alcoholic or a chronic excessive drinker, according to surveys which show 750,000 alcoholics in addition to 2,250,000 excessive drinkers.

Connecticut has set up a state commission to extend Yale University plan clinics throughout the state. Three other states, New Hampshire, New Jersey and Alabama, have earmarked funds for treatment of alcoholics and 14 cities throughout the country have established committees for education on alcoholism.

The Yale clinical treatment provides for counselling without institutionalizing those who come voluntarily or are sent by relatives or the courts. The clinics are staffed by a psychiatrist, physician, lay therapist and psychiatric social worker who cooperate with Alcoholics Anonymous and other public and private agencies.

Yale clinics reported drunkenness checked—sometimes cured—in 50 percent of the cases.

The Horse Is Here to Stay.

Although atomic warfare has revolutionized tactics and strategy, there is still a place in the military picture for the horse. Accordingly, the Army Remount Service will continue its efforts to improve the breed of American cavalry and farm horses.

In Word War I the quality of American horses was so far beneath military standards that the war department was forced to acquire nearly a third of the 486,000 horses and mules it purchased in England, France and Spain.

The army, with cavalry merged with the armored forces, bought only 57,242 animals in World War II. More than half of these were draft horses or mules. Many of the mounts went to coast guard beach patrols.

Cavalry horses saw virtually no combat in World War II but pack mules played a useful role in mountainous Italy, and in China, Burma and the South Pacific.

Science Flies On.

The genius of American aviation scientists which enabled this country to spurt from last to first place in wartime airpower is turning out postwar ships that dwarf the B-17 Flying Fortress and B-29 Superfortress. The Army's newest, Consolidated Vultee's XB-36, successfully passed its first test hop last week near Fort Worth, Tex. This world's largest land-based bomber has a wingspread of 230 feet compared with 141 for the B-29. It can carry a 30-ton bombload 10,000 miles. The B-29 flies 4,100 miles with a bombload pared considerably under 10 tons.

Bumper Harvests Ahead.

Americans will find a little more food on the home plate the rest of this year, predicted the department of agriculture, as a result of seasonal increases in food production.

Meat supplies will be larger than a year ago until late this fall. Livestock held back this spring is being marketed now but by October lower production of beef and lamb than in 1945 and possible larger exports to relief areas may bring civilian supplies below the near-record consumption of last winter.

There is little prospect of improvement, however, in supplies of fats—butter, margarine, lard, shortening.

Abroad

Palestine and China.

Palestine and China, two postwar hot spots, seethed in ferment last week with outright civil war hanging in the balance.

Britain declared that rebellion threatened in the Holy Land and invoked a total blockade against illegal Jewish immigration. RAF planes winged over the eastern Mediterranean spotting additional ships loaded with refugees converging on Palestine and British warships escorted new arrivals to Cyprus.

Palestine was an armed camp as the British clamped down rigid military restrictions. Curfews were imposed in heavily populated Jewish areas along the seacoast. Tank-led Tommies streamed into key ports. Barbed wire ringed streets and government buildings.

In China, Gen. George C. Marshall, presidential envoy, admitted publicly the failure of his mission. Together with John Leighton Stuart, new U. S. ambassador to China, he declared in a statement from Nanking that peaceful settlement of differences between Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Kuomintang Party and the Chinese Communists seemed impossible.

UNRRA Liquidation.

In Geneva delegates discussed the scheduled liquidation of UNRRA beginning December 31. Czechoslovakia, Poland, Greece, Yugoslavia, China, Norway, Austria and Russia were among the nations receiving UNRRA relief who asked the United States and other supplying nations not to cut them adrift next year.

Director LaGuardia assured them that even though there were no funds no nation still in need would be forsaken. Undersecretary of State William Clayton, American delegate, was not so reassuring. The U. S., which has contributed 72 percent of the total aid, no longer, he said, will support UNRRA in 1947.

Before it closes its books, La Guardia said, UNRRA will have spent almost $3,000,000,000 to combat hunger, disease and economic distress growing out of war. About $1,216,000,000 remains in the cash drawer.

Farmer's Diary: "Enjoyable Ailments."

IT'S STRANGE how some folks enjoy poor health. When I was very young, I remember a distant relative came to visit us once or twice each week. His farm was just a mile from ours as the crow flies—twice that far, by the road.

Always he carried a cane cut from a hickory sprout, with a semi-circular curve at the top. The dark withered bark clung tightly to the solid wood. I can see him yet, coming up our drive, with the end of that old worn cane on the toe of his broad leather boot. Slowly, very deliberately, he walked, looking at the fencerows and fields as though he might miss something interesting.

When he reached our summer-house, which mother used for a kitchen and washroom, she went to the door to greet and invite him in. In Pennsylvania Dutch, she would always ask how it went with him and then he very meekly and slowly, in the same language, told her about the misery in his head and the rheumatiz in his arms and legs.

By the time he had visited an hour about his many ailments, he was almost too depressed to rise from his chair—yet it must have done him good, for year after year, though he complained more, he never seemed to get any worse. He still carried the old cane atop his boot and his long legs were as flexible as ever, only a little slower.

His old blue jeans had pills in every pocket. He made it a point to take out about three different colors of them, while he visited, explaining at great length what the doctor said they would cure. I used to stand at his elbow, wide-eyed.

I remember too, that his threadbare clothes were clean, but he smelled like a drug store. The sweetish sugar coating and the variety of hues those pills exhibited used to tempt boyish appetite. Yet he never offered any.

Another time, we had a near neighbor who came to visit. We always knew by his step, just what mood he was in. He had stomach ulcers, a weak back and sore feet. He liked to talk Dutch with my father.

One summer day, he was taken with a "spell of sun." They got the doctor. When we got there, the doctor had just left, the house was severely quiet. The children and their mother whispered to each other. I remember stepping into the room where the sick man lay, when he suddenly opened his eyes, and a deeper expression of true satisfaction I never saw on a human face. He stayed in bed for a week.

That man lived to be 85 and even to the last day of his life continued to "enjoy poor health."

Dave Boone Says:

I SEE where President Truman has signed a bill which makes it possible for somebody other than a millionaire or a magician to be an American ambassador. The salaries which have always been about what a good office boy gets are upped to $25,000, but even that is pretty low.

* * *

For too many years Uncle Sam, in picking an ambassador, has had to ask "Is it the best money we can get for the post?" and the instructions in making a final selection have been "just make sure we are making a good choice of cash assets."

Stewart Alsop

Background of the Palestine Imbroglio.

Walter Lippmann is on vacation for several weeks. His column will be resumed upon his return.

LONDON—The present mess in the Middle East and especially in Palestine has two main underlying causes — the inadequacy of present British resources and the pressure from the Soviet Union on the British positions.

As previously stated, the long-range British-Middle Eastern policy is to put "people ahead of pashas." The purpose is to raise the level of life of the Middle Eastern masses; to create a healthy economic, social and political climate and thereby attach this vital area to the Western rather than the Soviet system. If strongly implemented, this policy should provide sound solutions of the Palestine and other Middle Eastern problems.

But, because the British treasury cupboard has been bare, the policy has only been adopted in principle. It cannot be put into immediate effect without U. S. aid.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union is actively working to capture the Middle East and threatens to succeed—which would mean the end of Britain as a world power.

With insufficient resources to meet this danger, the British are responding excitably, almost hysterically, to local emergencies. Among the results have been the more inexcusable events in Palestine.

From any standpoint, it is impossible to defend such episodes as the mass arrests and the letter of General Barker. But it is also important to understand the severity of the Soviet pressure which causes the British to fear the Arabs and therefore to deal wrongly with the Jews.

This Soviet pressure first manifested itself in the Iranian crisis of last winter. It is now known beyond much doubt that the Soviets then intended the prompt and forcible transformation of Iran into a Soviet satellite, followed fairly rapidly by an advance on Turkey.

They were halted by the strong hand of Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, but having been halted, they merely changed their tactics and pressed less brusquely to the same objective.

Three lines of attack were adopted. In Iran, support for the Tudeh party was increased and other means were used to domesticate the government of Premier Qavam es Saltaneh, the docile inhabitant of the Soviet barnyard. In northern Iran, in the southwestern Soviet Republics, minority groups such as the Kurds, the Armenians and the Assyro-Chaldeans were encouraged with arms and other aid to start nationalist movements intended to spread to the Kurds and Assyro-Chaldeans in Iraq and the Armenians and Kurds in Turkey.

And at Beirut in Syria, where dispossessed Arab intellectuals congregate, headquarters were established for an orthodox underground Communist network spreading into Iraq, Lebanon and Egypt. The Tudeh party in Iran was hooked into this network.

The third of these methods soon proved the most promising by reason of the Middle Eastern social and political pattern, which Russia, of course, blames in part on past British policy. The basic pattern is simple — a decadent feudal class supported on the backs of an impoverished Western industrialism has added two new elements — the workers in such enterprises as Anglo-Iranian oil, and the dispossessed, Western-trained intellectuals.

Thus the old feudalism had long ago begun to weaken. The wartime influx of Allied forces, spending heavily, relocating labor, disrupting wage rates, increased the strain tenfold. And the rise of Arab nationalism put the finishing touch on the situation.

Small wonder then that the Beirut headquarters could soon boast of successes. It had hardly begun its organizing drive before substantial gains were scored in Egypt.

There the W. A. F. D. is the only political party with anything resembling a popular base. King Farouk mortally detests the W. A. F. D. leader, Nahas Pasha. Thus the party, deprived of the hope of returning to power by normal means, was open to rapid infiltration. When the infiltration began, King Farouk and his attendant pashas took alarm and called a temporary halt by indiscriminate arrests.

In Iraq, meanwhile, in addition to Kurdish separatism, a political movement similar to the Kurd Tudeh party gained strength in the oil fields and towns. And in Iran, the Tudeh strength increased throughout the south until the Anglo-Iranian strike was called. The strikers, incidentally, are now known to have received Soviet arms and direct Soviet encouragement.

Events in Iran emphasize just as dramatically, although less conspicuously, the British determination which has been seen in Palestine to retain their Middle Eastern position at all costs.

During the first crisis, the cabinet sent a mission to Iran composed of one Conservative and two Labor M. P.'s. The mission returned with a recommendation that Iran be partitioned between Russians and British while there was yet time to save southern Iran from the Soviets.

Instead Ernest Bevin instructed the Anglo-Iranian company to grant generous wage raises in order to consolidate the British position. This was delayed, so that when the strike broke out Bevin almost tore the head of the company to pieces on the floor of the foreign office.

But while the company was taught its lesson, the cabinet had no intention of letting the Soviets absorb southern Iran into their sphere. Thus it was decided to use force if necessary and even to resort to partition if necessary.

The strike was settled because the Iranian government was informed of these decisions; the Soviets were not prepared to carry their maneuver to its logical conclusion, and Premier Qavam therefore suppressed the strike movement.

While willing, under pressure, to adopt such a drastic emergency measure, the British had still not abandoned their long-range objective. In preparation for the time when they can finance great projects of economic betterment on the T. V. A. pattern, they are constantly pressing on the Iraq government and on King Farouk in Egypt with the urgent need to undertake the most far-reaching reforms. They are both warning of disaster if the reforms are not launched and promise the immediate technical assistance and large scale financing later on.

Appealing to the better nature of the pashas does not promise much, but it is all the British can do. Against this background, events in Palestine become more comprehensible if no more admirable. But that does not answer the question of who is to control the Middle East.

SEEK SOURCE OF INJURIES

Wyandot Sheriff Investigates Unknown Accident to Laurel Miller.

BUCYRUS — Investigation by the Wyandot county sheriff into the injuries received from an unknown cause Tuesday by Laurel V. Miller, 53, who is in City hospital in a serious condition, was continuing today.

Miller, who lives near the county line near Sycamore, was admitted to Bucyrus City hospital Wednesday noon with a head and chest injury. He was in a semi-conscious condition and has not regained consciousness since being admitted. Members of his family said he returned home Tuesday night in a dazed condition and was unable to account for the injuries. A doctor was summoned Wednesday morning when his condition was unimproved.

Wyandot county officers said it was possible that he had fallen from his tractor.

As many as 40,000 weed seeds have been counted in a square foot of soil.

Jesus and Sacredness of Human Life ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 20:13; Proverbs 1:10-19; Isaiah 59:1-9; Matt. 5:21-24; 10:29-31; 18:1-7; 10-14; Luke 9:51-56; Eph. 4:32.

"My son, if sinners entice thee, consent thou not . . . walk not thou in the way with them . . . for their feet run to evil, and make haste to shed blood."

"The froward is an abomination to the Lord: . . . The curse of the Lord is in the house of the wicked; but He blesseth the habitation of the just."

The commandment says, "Thou shalt not kill," but Jesus said, "whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment."

"And be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake forgiveth you." MEMORY VERSE—Eph. 4:32.

Bits of News From Nearby Towns

NORTH FAIRFIELD

Nine boys of the Fairfield F. F. A. are attending the Muskingum State F. F. A. camp at Conotton this week. They are: Robert Lee, Phil Leak, Edwin Perry, Roger Rang, Richard Moser, Benjamin Keefer, Johnnie Minniear, Paul Bond and Albert Patton. Lyle Myers and Mr. and Mrs. Corwin Leak took the boys to camp Sunday.

The following ten girls from this community recently spent three days at the Bellevue YMCA camp in Peru township: Doris Smith, Shirley Signs, Nancy Leak, Mary Alice Leak, Fay Barker, Alice Reed, Roberta Garner, Lois Billard, Annabelle Kerchner, and Donna Jean Billard. They enjoyed handicraft, swimming, hiking, and dancing, and the vesper services and camp fire each evening.

The Fairfield Willing Workers 4-H club went on tour Monday visiting the home of each member, judging each others projects, gardens, livestock, poultry, etc., preliminary to the taking of their projects to the county fair.

The Loyal Temperance Legion met recently at the home of Johnnie Holden. A group of L. T. L. songs opened the meeting and the scripture reading was by Katherine Reed, with prayer by Mrs. Holden. A short service on the theme, "Temper", was presented by Mrs. Snyder, with Barbara Conaway reading a poem on "Guarding Our Temper", Buddy Maerkisch, Johnnie Holden, Richard Conaway and Ruth Graham gave Bible verses on the theme, and Mildred Wilson read a prayer poem. America the Beautiful was sung, followed by the salute to the flag, and the L. T. L. pledge, led by Johnnie Holden, vice-president. The lesson for the day was a continuation of the subject, narcotics and cigaretts, and was followed by a skit, The Cigaret That Jack Had, which was presented by eight children. A poem, "L. T. L. Addition", was read by Sandra Sanders, and Barbara Conaway read a football story, "Sparkplug Bob", after which the boys worked a short time on their "Building A Town" scrapbook, in charge of Buddy Maerkisch. Then all enjoyed a recreation period of games and contests. Lovely refreshments were served by Mrs. Holden.

Mrs. Dora Brooks has as her house guest, Gertrude Osenburg, of San Diego, Cal., who is here for an extended visit. Florence Willis of Canton, was a recent house guest of Mrs. Brooks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Hommel, of Arkansas, Kan., were guests recently of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hommel and family. Mrs. Rosa Vaughn, of Williamstown, was also a recent guest for a few days at the Hommel home, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bowersox, of Clyde, were recent callers.

Edith Beck, Ethel Beck, with their niece, Sally Wagner, of Cleveland, were recent guests at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Beck.

Marjorie Woodruff, of Columbus, is a guest for a few weeks at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Woodruff.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ruggles and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cole, of Norwalk, were recent guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cole, of Denver, Col., recently spent a few days with his mother, Mrs. Josephine Cole. They were enroute to New York and expect to stop on their return trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hartman and children of Mansfield, were recent guests of their mother, Mrs. Rachel Hartman, and brother, Mr. Sam Hartman.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hankammer recently visited at the home of their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sherer and sons, of Cincinnati.

FRED THARP
(Pinch-hitting for Hal Clawson)

Instead of sitting back and doing nothing but getting injunctions and alternately griping about the situation and applauding Happy Chandler's decision to uphold the five-year ban on Mickey Owen, the time appears ripe for the major league magnates to do something about the Mexican baseball league.

The baseball big-wigs can't just shrug off the Pasquel brother's Beisbol circuit because it is, and has been for years, a profitable business. Taking their 1946 dealings with big leaguers as a criterion, the Pasquel boys are not afraid to dispense with mucho pesos if it means luring Americanos south of the border.

In all fairness to everyone concerned, the Mexican player raids have done much for our national pastime. They have drained off some war-time talent who couldn't have made the big show this year.

However, the biggest contribution lies in the recent conferences where players were invited to meet with magnates and wipe out some of the "bugs" in contracts and relations. It is safe to say that the Pasquel's utter disregard for money when "stealing" American players brought these meetings about.

The Mexican league could be a haven for older players with only a half-dozen years of baseball left in their systems. The usual Mexican contracts are for three or five years and would allow the performers to lay away a nest-egg, something they couldn't do if they spent their waning years playing out the string in the minor leagues.

These older players could take the strain of playing in the Mexican league (games are scheduled only three or four times a week) and would be helping themselves and baseball.

All of the talk in the world won't do a bit of good unless Mexican and American officials get together in an open meeting and try to reach an agreement.

Next year may be a little late because the Pasquels are planning on digging deep in their pockets and some more Max Lanier's, Owen's and Luis Olmo's may be hitting that gold-dust trail. Ted Williams and Bobby Feller, to name a few, have been forwarded blank checks and it isn't too far-fetched to presume that some of the top stars won't try to get some of the gravy.

Four or five hundred thousand "bucks" is not to be sneezed at and who could blame some of the boys from taking advantage of the opportunity.

Of course, skeptics will cite the Mickey Owen case. He says he didn't like it across the border and maybe conditions were not too good. However, Owen admits he is financially set as a result of his Mexican adventure.

"Lippy" Leo Durocher had hoped to get Owens back in a Dodger uniform. It would have been pennant insurance and then some as the Brooks have only one capable bark-stop, Bruce Edwards.

Durocher stated, "I am not going to say a thing. Chandler is the boss."

But next year more pilots may be in Durocher's shoes and the only thing, seemingly, to prevent it is an objective approach to the solution.

With big business men taking over the reins of the clubs (witness purchase of the Yankees, Indians and Pirates this year) you can bet your bottom dollar that they will do something to prevent any top-flight drawing cards from succumbing to the lure of the almighty dollar.

Southpaw Hurlers Give Cardinals Bad Time

By JOE REICHLER, AP Sports Writer.

If the St. Louis Cardinals never see another lefthanded pitcher, it will be all right with Manager Eddie Dyer.

During the past four months, the runner-up Redbirds had three chances to wrest the National league lead from the Brooklyn Dodgers and blew them all. On each occasion it was a southpaw who stopped them.

A similar opportunity presented itself last night. The Dodgers had been beaten by the Philadelphia Phils earlier in the day. A victory over the last place Pittsburgh Pirates would have advanced the Cardinals to within five percentage points of the top.

A southpaw Ken Heintzelman defeated them for the third time this season with a brilliant two-hit 3-0 shutout. The Pirate portsider had a no-hitter going until the eighth when Ert Dusak scratched a single off his glove. Pinch-hitter Buster Adams got a similar hit in the ninth. Elbie Fletcher, with a double and triple, accounted for all Pittsburgh's runs as the Pirates won their sixth straight game.

At that, the Cards might be worse off, for a scheduled daylight contest, preceding the evening game, was postponed by rain.

The Philadelphia victory over Brooklyn was sweet revenge for the Quakers. Having bowed 12 straight times this season to the Brooks before finally breaking the jinx with a double win last Sunday at Philadelphia, the Phils gained their initial win at Ebbets field when Judd stopped the Dodgers with a four-hit 4-2 victory.

The Boston Red Sox drew first blood in their important four-game series with the New York Yankees, defeating their rivals 4-1 to increase their American league lead to 13 games. Joe DiMaggio who accounted for the Yanks' lone run with his 19th home run, strained a nerve in his right arm trying to head off Bobby Doerr in the fifth inning. Detroit downed the Chicago White Sox 3-1.

The Cincinnati Reds, who lost 21 of 22 games to the Cubs last year, gained a 3-2 victory over their former tormentors for their seventh win in 17 meetings with the Cubs this year.

Scheduled night games between the New York Giants and Boston Braves in the National league and Washington's Senators and Philadelphia Athletics in the American league were postponed by rain. Cleveland and the St. Louis Browns were not scheduled.

Colonels Run AA Lead to 11½

(By Associated Press)

Widening their American Association lead to 11½ games, the Louisville Colonels last night took a 1-0, 12-inning victory over Milwaukee with the aid of Strick Shofner's timely triple, then belted the Brewers again 4-1.

Indianapolis edged a single game verdict from Kansas City, 5-2, on effective relief pitching in the ninth by Red Cecil, who broke up a threatened rally. The Tribe pounded Al Lyons for 11 hits and benefitted by two errors by the Blues, whose loss spun them into the cellar.

The Toledo Mudhens smashed the third-place St. Paul Saints twice, 7 to 4 and 13 to 4. The brood — aided by Jerry Witte's three homers in the two games which hiked his total to 34—piled up five runs in the sixth inning of the opener, and in the afterpiece got off to a two-run lead and were never headed.

Columbus swept a doubleheader from Minneapolis 4-1 and 5-1. The Red Birds staged a three-run rally in the sixth frame of the first game when Minneapolis' Rube Fischer turned wild after two were out, hitting a batsman and walking two. Wayne McLeland tossed a five hitter in the nightcap.

90 Lads Set For Caddy Qualifier

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Early arrivals for the national caddy tournament starting Monday sized up Ohio State university's 6,900-yard, 72-par Scarlet course today.

Ninety of the boys will start competition for a four-year Ohio State scholarship with an 18-hole qualifier Monday, and the 64 low scorers will go into match play opening Tuesday and continuing to a 36-hole final match Sunday, Aug. 25.

Not yet here, but promised by Pat Stanton, pro at the Jackson, O., Country club, is 16-year-old Billy Nichols of Jackson, who plays in his bare feet and shoots in the 70's.

GRAYS AFTER 12TH 1946 VICTORY

Mansfield Grays will go after their 12th victory in 22 games tomorrow afternoon when they meet the American Legion Post 72 baseballers at 2:30 at Tillman field.

Merle Leedy is Manager Red Hemmans choice to handle the Grays' mound chores.

Giant Killing Mary McMillin Reaches Women's Golf Finals

By LARRY SMITH

CLEVELAND—(AP)—A nineteen-year-old Wisconsin girl with an unorthodox swing and a battered 13-year-old putter tees off in the finals of the Women's Western Amateur tournament today in quest of her third triumph over a big name star in five days.

Mary McMillin, an attractive little brunet with a winning smile, was matched over the 36-hole route with Louise Suggs, the Western Open ruler from Lithia Springs, Ga., and no one could rule out the unheralded Green Bay miss after the two startling upsets she already has produced.

* * *

The little stenographer ousted defending champion Phyllis Otto in the first round Tuesday and vaulted into the finals yesterday with a 2 and 1 triumph over Mrs. Mildred (Babe) Didrikson Zaharias, recent winner of the All-American at Tam O'Shanter.

Using a battered stick that once belonged to her father, Miss McMillin staged a putting display that roused even veteran tournament observers. Four times she rapped home putts ranging from 12 to 35 feet to keep Mrs. Zaharias on the defensive all day.

After the match, Mrs. Zaharias declared: "I've never seen such putting. She seemed to be in sort of a daze but it's a nice daze to be in."

Her mother Mrs. M. E. McMillin, said Mary "cried a little after the match. He emotions just got the best of her."

She has had only a few lessons from pros. Her main teacher has been her dad, a Green Bay dentist who plays golf for fun and never has competed in a tournament. He is afraid to turn her over to a pro for instruction because he thinks any attempt to teach her more orthodox methods might ruin her game. The peculiarity of her game consists of a backswing too short and jerky.

Miss Suggs reached the finals by downing Jean Hopkins, Cleveland city champion, 4 and 2, in the other semi-final yesterday.

Walcott Wins, May Get Spot On Joe Louis Slaughter List

NEW YORK—(AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott, a Camden, N. J., family man, today found himself perched precariously, and perhaps apprehensively, on the brink of a bout with Joe Louis should the heavyweight champion be successful in his title defense against Tami Mauriello next month.

Jersey Joe, 32-year-old father of six children, knocked out stocky, muscular Tommy Gomez of Port Tampa, Fla., in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden last night, and it was understood the winner of the encounter would be next in line for a shot at the championship.

It was a tragic ending of title dreams for the Florida slugger, who came out of the service scarred by 16 shrapnel and bullet wounds to run up a string of six straight knockouts.

Renowned only for his knockout wallop, Tommy came out at the opening bell intent on ending matters quickly. He was wild in the first, but was more restrained in the second round, and was holding his own fairly well until five seconds before the final bell, when Walcott caught him on the jaw with an overhand right that sent him down. He was still down at the bell.

Walcott pressed the fight at the start of the third round, and landed several good blows before a tremendous right-hand punch sent Gomez tumbling flat on his face. The Tampan arose at nine, but Referee Frank Fullam stopped the affair. The time was 1:21.

A crowd of 11,657 paid $47,886 to see the show.

Cubs' School Team Here

One of the season's biggest baseball programs as far as young players is concerned comes up here tomorrow afternoon at Liberty park.

Tony Lucadello, scout for the Chicago Cubs, will bring a team from his baseball school at Bowling Green university here for a game with Jim Lymper's Mansfield Tigers.

This will give local fans a chance to see young baseball prospects from all over the country for the school at Bowling Green has boys from many states.

In a preliminary game starting at 1 p. m. the Tigers will play the local junior legion nine with the second game slated to get under way at 3 p. m.

Indians Seek New Attendance Record

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Cleveland's Indians will seek to break a 26-year-old season home attendance record tonight when they tangle with the Chicago White Sox.

As a result of promotional work by Bill Veeck, the club's new president, the team has drawn 882,074 fans in home games this year. This is 30,335 short of the record set in 1920.

Bobby Feller, who will start for Cleveland tonight, is seeking his 22nd victory of the season and additions to his strikeout total of 262. Edgar Smith was nominated for mound duty by Chicago.

Marion Nine Plays Leesville Reds

LEESVILLE — Local baseball fans will get their last look at the Leesville Reds on the home grounds this Sunday afternoon when the Marion Transfer nine comes here for a tilt starting at 2:30.

Runner-up in the district semi-pro tourney the Transfers are expected to give the Reds one of the season's toughest battles.

Slippery Swine Swim Scheduled

KIRKLAND, Wash.—(AP)—An Arkansas razorback and a plump porker from the Pacific northwest ranked as favorites today to bring home the bacon in the first annual national pig-swimming derby.

Twenty lanes were roped off, and the waters of Lake Washington barred to all but porcine paddlers as contestants engaged in last-minute workouts before the main event this afternoon.

BONNELL AFTER 11TH STRAIGHT TRIUMPH

CLEVELAND —(NS)— Al Bonnell, the speedster from Erie, Pa., will be gunning for his 11th straight victory tomorrow night in the weekly midget auto racing program at the Sportsman park speedway in suburban Bedford.

The former Ohio champion has piled up his victory string in the last two weeks.

APPOINT BRUNETEAU

Futurity Draws Top 2-Year-Olds

CHICAGO—(NS)—Sixteen two-year-olds make up the field for this afternoon's eighth running of the fabulous $82,950 Washington Park Futurity, and every one of them had a good chance of winning.

The Futurity, serving as a penultimate climax to a season which has failed to produce one standout juvenile champ, has attracted nearly all the big names of the division—with the exception of Cosmic Bomb, Jet Pilot, and several notable fillies whose owners don't like the idea of pitting them against colts at their age.

NEW CADIZ COACH

CADIZ, O. — (NS) — Wayne A. Stoddard, former Fostoria athlete, is the new coach of Cadiz high school. He succeeds Guz Zader, who resigned.

Homers Hurt OSL Giants

(By Associated Press)

Newark home runs cost Springfield a half game of its Ohio State league lead Friday night.

Catcher Fred Morris of the Newark Moundsmen homered in the 10th inning at Springfield to break a 6-6 tie and start a rally which won for the visitors 9-6. Morris homered in the fourth, too, an inning in which his teammates Stan Mueller and Deters also got round-trippers.

Zanesville's Dodgers played to a 12-12 tie at Dayton before the 11:50 p. m. curfew halted the game. The stand-off enabled the Dodgers to move to within three games of first place Springfield.

At Richmond, Ind., southpaws Pete Fox and Frank Cobo whitewashed the Marion Cardinals for their 15th and 16th respective triumphs of the season. Fox gave only one hit in the opener—a single to Cliff Simpson, who replaced Vernon Rapp as catcher for Marion when Rapp broke a finger of his right hand in the top half of that inning. Richmond won that one 8-0 and took the nightcap 5-0.

Wet grounds forced postponement of Lima's game at Middletown.

OHIO SWIMMERS WIN FOUR A.A.U. EVENTS

SHAKAMAK STATE PARK, Ind. —(AP)— Ohioans won four events in the A. A. U. swimming meet here yesterday and captured one second, two third and three fourth places.

Dick Fetterman of Canton won the men's 100-meter backstroke open in 1:12.5, a new meet record.

PRENTISS FAVORED

MANCHESTER, Mass.—(UP)—Mrs. Mary Arnold Prentiss of Los Angeles became the new favorite in the 19th annual women's invitational tennis tournament as play entered the semi-final round today with top-ranked Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, defaulting after three major tourney victories.

Winebrenner Scatters Six Hits, Fans Seven

MARION—Barnes Manufacturing company of Mansfield battled its way into the men's state softball tournament at Springfield next week-end by outlasting the field of 23 teams in the sixth district softball tournament which ended here last night.

The Barnes club, with Stub Winebrenner hurling steady ball, edged Strine's Service Station of Ashland, 4 to 3, in the final contest. Winebrenner spaced six safeties and recorded seven strikeouts.

After drawing a first round bye, Barnes defeated Gorman-Rupp of Mansfield, Upper Sandusky Elks and Marion Smitty's Grill to reach the final round. The Ashland aggregation knocked off Mansfield Shell Oil, Carey Merchants and Marion Universal Coolers in the march to the championship encounter.

Four bobbles by Ashland fielders helped Barnes win the 1946 title. The Mansfield outfit played errorless ball.

Campbell got to second on an error in the last of the second, stole third and came home with the first run on Turner's grounder. Strines knotted the count in the fourth on Risser's single, Kyler's grounder, and a solid one-base smash by Puglisi.

Barnes clinched the result in the bottom half of the sixth on Turner's single, a two-ply wallop by Hough, a single by Daugherty and a pair of errors.

Winebrenner ran into trouble for the first time in the seventh when Puglisi opened with a ringing double. W. Strine went down on strikes, but Strang followed with a two-base blow. O. B. Strine also whiffed, but Pitcher Plank narrowed the margin to one run by singling Strang across the platter.

Barnes is leading the Mansfield Industrial softball league with eight victories and one defeat.

Trapshooters Sharpen Aim

VANDALIA — (AP) — The vanguard of an expected 1,200 entries sharpened their aim today in preliminary rounds for the grand American trapshoot's main events which start Monday.

A doubles shoot crowded off yesterday's opening preliminary program by darkness was on today's schedule along with a shoot-off between Vic Reinders of Waukesha, Wis., and Julius Petty of England, Ark., for the 100-bird singles event.

Reinders, Petty and Homer E. Clark, jr., of Alton, Ill., and C. M. Reagan of Peru, Ind., cracked 100 birds yesterday but Reagan left the grounds before the shoot-off. Clark missed a bird in the next 25 and was eliminated, while Reinders and petty ran their string to 125 before dusk stopped the competition.

Bob Allen of Fort Dodge, Ia., Bernie Judd of Hamilton, O., Joe Devers of Dayton, O., and Phil Miller of Kansas City missed only one bird each in the 100-bird event.

A 50-bird handicap also ended with first prize to be decided today. Tied with 49 out of 50 were O. T. Dean of Seattle, Bailey Gary of Columbus, Charlie Nichols of Piqua, O., Bud Overton of Providence, R. I., and A. H. Davidson of Chicago.

Little Cast As PGA Darkhorse

PORTLAND, Ore. —(AP)— Two professionals playing in their first Professional Golfers association national tournament as "freshmen" assumed the stature of dark horses as the large field sharpened its game over the exacting Portland Golf club course today.

The pair, which matches strokes with some 120 others of the nation's best play-for-pay golfers starting next Monday are Lawson Little, the long socker from Monterey, Calif., and Melvin R. "Chick" Harbert, Northville, Mich.

The rest of the pros, including defending Champion Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., are especially wary of Little, who admits he likes match play a lot better than medal play.

Two Local Boys Race Sunday

Dwane Geary and Hugh Crouse, winner and runnerup respectively, of the stock bicycle race held here Aug. 7 under the sponsorship of the Lions club, will complete in the national races at Columbus tomorrow afternoon.

Originally scheduled for today at Franklin park in the Capitol City, the stock bike race will be held just before the speed races Sunday.

Stojack Stars In Grid Tilt

WHEELING, W. Va.—(AP)—Before John Stojack, Steubenville, O., star halfback, was carried off the field in the final period with an injury, he scored three touchdowns for a southeastern Ohio high school all-star team which whipped a northern West Virginia schoolboy eleven 26-7 last night before 11,000 rain-soaked fans.

The game was a feature of a high school coaches' grid clinic, and Frank Thomas, Alabama mentor, directed an Ohio team which used advantages in weight and experience to outplay completely its opposition from across the Ohio river.

Stojack tallied his first touchdown a minute after the opening kickoff and spearheaded a 50-yard touchdown drive in the final quarter.

The Ohio victory evened the all-star series at two games each. It was called off during the war.

Curtain Goes Up On 1946 Ohio Scholastic Grid Season As Rebels Upset Yanks By 26-21 Count

By DON STULL

TOLEDO—(AP)—The curtain was up on Ohio's 1946 gridiron season today and the preview gave promise of a year of wide-open, high-scoring football with the accent on forward and lateral passing and long touchdown-producing plays.

The preview was offering last night in the first annual All-Ohio All-Star football game in which the "Rebels" of the South upset a favored North team, 26-21.

The game produced seven touchdowns, four of them long-gaining plays from outside the scrimmage line with aerial attacks figuring in nearly every scoring march.

South, coached by Frank Leahy and staff from Notre Dame university, got away to a 26-point lead before the Northern "Yanks," tutored by Paul Bixler and company of Ohio State, found themselves in the second half and unleashed a brilliant passing game that almost pulled them even.

The two 24-man squads were selected from last year's all-state choices of the three major news wire services and a committee of the Ohio High School Coaches association.

Especially smooth were North's Chuck Huwer, 183-pound back from St. Mary's Memorial, who shocked his team's isolated effort, and Co-Scorer Joe Stojack, 188-pound halfback Bill Fleitz of Newark, whose fancy open field work staked the Rebels to their early lead.

Hence the outstanding individual star of the night who says he wants to play for Ohio State, figured in every scoring play for North.

He tallied one touchdown himself, on a 5-yard gallop, tossed two touchdown passes and added the extra point after each six-pointer with perfect place kicks.

Fleitz scored two of his team's four touchdowns, racking 58 yards for one and going over from the one-foot line after spearheading a 70-yard march with a 12-yard run in the third.

That one-yard plunge by Fleitz started the South on its scoring spree eight minutes after the opening whistle. The Rebels added another on the first play of the second period when Dick Steiger, Columbus West fullback, lateralled to Halfback Cuff Wise of Hamilton Catholic who scampered 42 yards to the goal line. Jim Mask, a husky tackle from Connellsville, Pa., paved the way for the second six-pointer by blocking a punt.

Slagan's pitching produced another touchdown later in the same period. He tossed 13 yards to End Joe Koepnick of Canton Chaminade who raced 30 yards to score.

Fleitz's 38-yard canter produced the South's final touchdown, and Joe Corsi, a substitute guard from Steubenville Central Catholic, added his second conversion of the evening to wind up the scoring for the Leahy-guided eleven.

* * *

Minutes later, Huwer and End Tom Anderson of St. Mary's Memorial combined to give the Northerners their first touchdown.

Huwer subbing for Quarterback Bob Robison of Toledo Scott, tossed a 23-yard pass to Anderson, who caught it on the goal line.

Half way through the final period, Huwer skirted his right end to score from the six climaxing a 48-yard ground and aerial march.

The final touchdown, with one minute and 50 seconds left, came on a Huwer forward pass that gained 48 yards. He tossed 18 yards to End Schnittker of Sandusky and the six-foot, three-inch wingman lateralled to Bert Webb, Massillon Negro back, who sprinted for the score.

North chalked up 10 first downs to the South's six, but the "Rebels" outgained them from rushing 150 to 116 yards. North hurled 13 forwards and completed eight for a net gain of 183 yards. South threw 10, completed five for 101 yards. Leahy's boys also intercepted three "Yank" forwards.

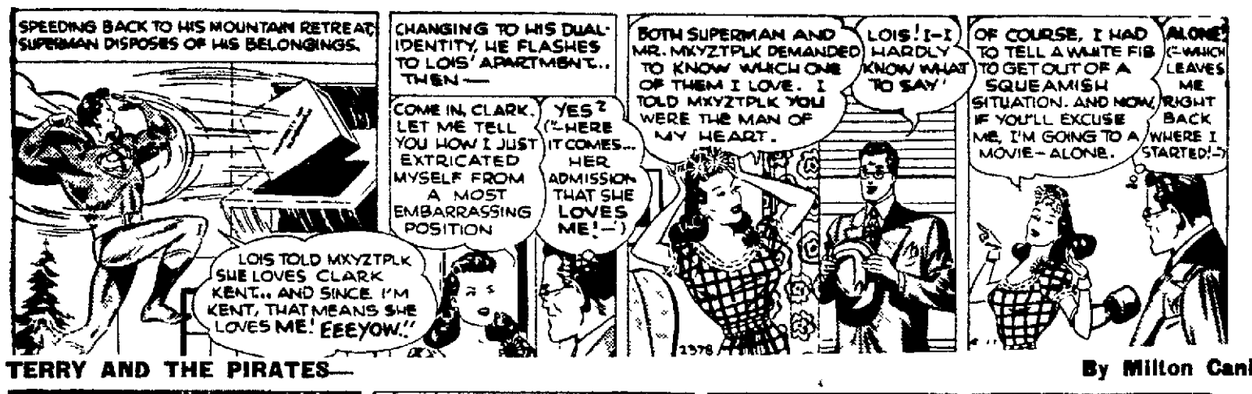
SUPERMAN— By Jerry Siegel and Joe Shuster

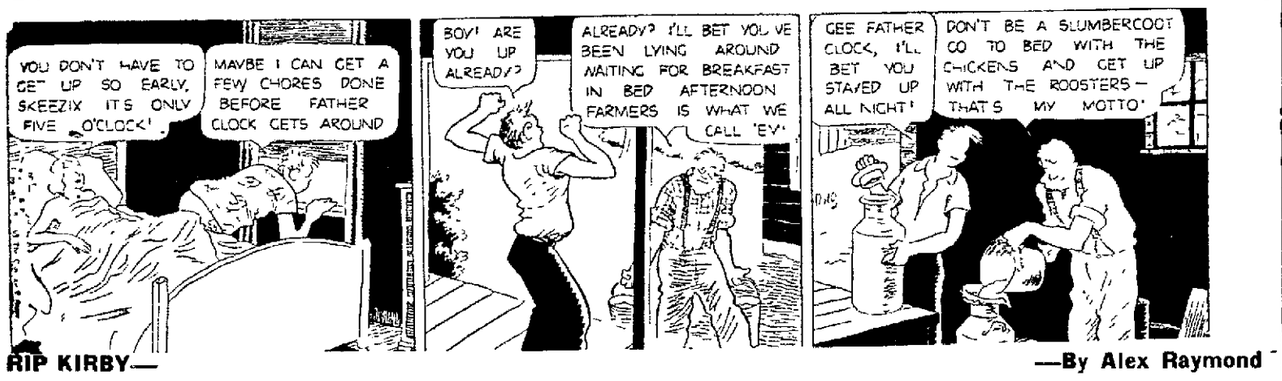


SPEEDING BACK TO HIS MOUNTAIN RETREAT, SUPERMAN DISPOSES OF HIS BELONGINGS.
LOIS TOLD MXYZTPLK SHE LOVES CLARK KENT.. AND SINCE I'M KENT, THAT MEANS SHE LOVES ME! EEEYOW!!
CHANGING TO HIS DUAL IDENTITY, HE FLASHES TO LOIS' APARTMENT.. THEN—
COME IN, CLARK. LET ME TELL YOU HOW I JUST EXTRICATED MYSELF FROM A MOST EMBARRASSING POSITION
YES? (—HERE IT COMES.. HER ADMISSION THAT SHE LOVES ME!—)
BOTH SUPERMAN AND MR. MXYZTPLK DEMANDED TO KNOW WHICH ONE OF THEM I LOVE. I TOLD MXYZTPLK YOU WERE THE MAN OF MY HEART.
LOIS! I—I HARDLY KNOW WHAT TO SAY!
OF COURSE, I HAD TO TELL A WHITE FIB TO GET OUT OF A SQUEAMISH SITUATION. AND NOW, IF YOU'LL EXCUSE ME, I'M GOING TO A MOVIE—ALONE.
ALONE? (—WHICH LEAVES ME RIGHT BACK WHERE I STARTED!—)

TERRY AND THE PIRATES— By Milton Caniff

CHOPSTICK, JOE WAS FULL OF NEWS, TERRY! WE'RE BOOKED TO FLY FAMINE RELIEF SUPPLIES TO ONE OF THE REMOTE PROVINCES!
THAT MAKES SENSE! — WHY SO GLOOMY, HOTSHOT?
NASTALTHIA HAD HER AIRPLANE PULLED OFF THE LINE AND CALLED OFF OUR FLYING LESSONS! SHE'S LEAVING TOWN!
YEE-IP— AH, I MEAN, AH-SAY—THAT IS NEWS!
MEANWHILE... MISSY WISH SUCH DRESS ON SUCH JOURNEY?
OF COURSE, STUPID! WHY DO YOU THINK I AM MAKING THIS TRIP?
EVERYTHING IS AS YOU ORDERED, MISSY!
IT HAD BETTER BE!

GASOLINE ALLEY— By Frank King



YOU DON'T HAVE TO GET UP SO EARLY, SKEEZIX IT'S ONLY FIVE O'CLOCK!
MAYBE I CAN GET A FEW CHORES DONE BEFORE FATHER CLOCK GETS AROUND BOY! ARE YOU UP ALREADY?
ALREADY? I'LL BET YOU'VE BEEN LYING AROUND WAITING FOR BREAKFAST IN BED AFTERNOON FARMERS IS WHAT WE CALL 'EM
GEE FATHER CLOCK, I'LL BET YOU STAYED UP ALL NIGHT!
DON'T BE A SLUMBERCOOT GO TO BED WITH THE CHICKENS AND GET UP WITH THE ROOSTERS— THAT'S MY MOTTO!

RIP KIRBY— —By Alex Raymond

HOLD YOUR FIRE I'M RIP KIRBY!
THE POLICE CLOSING IN ON THE OMINOUSLY-SILENT GANG STRONGHOLD, LOWER THEIR GUNS WHEN A FIGURE APPEARS WAVING A HANDKERCHIEF
I ENTERED BY THE BACK DOOR WE'RE TOO LATE! THE RING LEADERS, PAGAN LEE AND DR VALDA, HAVE SOMEHOW ESCAPED!
MEANWHILE...
WHERE DOES THIS TUNNEL LEAD PAGAN?
TO AN OLD SPRING-HOUSE AT THE EDGE OF THE WOODS WELL HAVE TO HURRY DOC!

PENNY— By Haenigsen

PHEW WHAT A DAY! WHAT SAY WE RUN DOWN TO THE BEACH?
THAT WOULD BE LUSH FATHER
YOU KNOW PENNY I DON'T THINK YOU'RE AS FOND OF ME AS YOU USED TO BE WHATEVER MAKES YOU THINK THAT, FATHER?
AHEM, WELL, NOT SO FAR BACK YOU ALWAYS INSISTED ON CARRYING ALL THIS BEACH STUFF TO THE CAR.
DON'T BE A GOOSE FATHER!
YOUR DOING IT MAKES ME SIMPLY FONDER OF YOU — THAN EVER!

WILL RESUME LAKE STRIKE PEACE TALKS

Curran Says Two of 17 Ship Operating Companies Agree to Talk.

can registry on the Great Lakes.

The NMU and the ship owners disagreed on the number of ships now tied up, but both sides agreed the number was growing.

The union said that 105 ships and 4,000 seamen were idle in ports of the five lakes.

The Lake Carriers' Association of ship owners at Cleveland said only 26 bulk freighters of 316 LCA ships were strike-bound. However, they had no figures available on 84 non-association ships.

A United Press survey of ports indicated that 56 ships were tied up, 14 ships at Detroit, one at Port Huron, Mich., two at Muskegon, Mich., five at Ashtabula, O., three at Cleveland, 14 at Chicago, three at Toledo, five at Duluth, five at Mantioc and Superior, Wis., one at Two Harbors, Minn., and three at Erie and Buffalo.

CONTRACT LET

Au's $21,100 Bid Low On Sloan Paving.

Board of control yesterday awarded the Sloan avenue paving contract to Roger J. Au on his low bid of $21,100, Service-Safety Director William W. Enlow reported.

The street will be paved from Marion to Bartley avenues.

Only other bid submitted was by George B. Herring and Son. They offered to do the job for $22,078, the director said.

Predict Disapproval of Refugee Plan

Jack Lait — On Broadway

RUTHLESS, RAPACIOUS James Caesar Petrillo seems hell-bent to wreck the nightclubs of New York, which cannot meet his latest demands and live. . . . Petrillo hasn't been getting his name in the papers lately, and has apparently decided to see to that. . . . I have long observed this egomaniac . . . His union, though in the AFL, is autonomous and he is absolute duce . . . He defies economic laws as he defies the nation's laws, which he is now doing flagrantly and blatantly—and he loves it; he loves that sensation of dictatorial arrogance: "Hah—I'm bigger than all America. Nothing can touch Petrillo. The world can't live without music—and I own the music. I have millions of dollars and don't account to anybody. My voiceless fiddlers and drummers and hornblowers worship me. Congress passes a special law just against me—and that law I break . . . So this is a republic . . . No king . . . What a laugh!"

* * *

Edda Ciano, 38-year-old daughter of Mussolini, we are advised first hand, is keeping her jaw up and out—apparently a family characteristic. . . . Shabby, hounded and fallen from pomp and power to poverty and disgrace, she has returned to Rome, seeking to salvage from her husband's or father's estates something on which to support her three children . . . "I am still a Fascist," she says. "Why not? But I despise politics, a filthy game from which I hope to keep my children . . . I was glad when Italy joined the war. I believed we would win . . . I will live with my mother-in-law, in her little house in Tuscany . . . I am writing no memoirs . . . My soul and my sorrows are not for sale!"

* * *

Plaza Hotel Conversation Piece—Elderly gentleman, very distingue, very plastered, paged to the phone . . . Helped by boy to get cord from around his neck and mouthpiece out of his ear: "H'lo . . . No . . . No . . . And wa'sh more, DON'T shay 'apropos of'—!"

* * *

Reported Romancing Mary Dallas and Donald Buka, who have played stage love-scenes, rehearsing their own script without a director . . . Taylor Allen, blond showgal at Arrowhead, Saratoga, and Louis Ritter, furrier . . . June Christie, Stan Kenton's vocalliure, and Paul Bannister, who books her . . . Martha Vickers and Don Alvardo . . . Don Wilson and Lita Warner, movie-magnate Harry's daughter, seen at the Carnival . . . And, my British spies whisper, Rumania's King Michael is being linked in Buckingham Palace rumors with Princess Elizabeth. (If that comes off, does it make her a queen, or him a prince consort?)

* * *

The John Jake Astors are seen at the best nightclubs—but not together . . . Louis Prima, introducing his new singer, Sandy Bishop, at Meadowbrook, says she's a Detroit socialite . . . Liz Whitney, at Bradley's, playing hard-to-photograph . . . That Club Car, the all-night locker-licker Fifth Ave., fall-in, which had its cabaret license lifted, going merrily along, 24 hours a day . . . Yonkers is starting on a mile-long sign, with letters 40 feet wide and 18 feet long—"Yonkers, N. Y.—City of Gracious Living—Celebrating its 300th Aniversary." Gracious! We spent 300 years in Yonkers one Saturday night!

Hal Boyle — Globe-Jotting

By TOM REEDY
(For Hal Boyle)

TAUBENBERG, Germany —(AP)—If Eva Braun had washed her neck more often and taken shorter strides, she might have been a lady—to her tailor.

But she didn't. Adolf Hitler apparently didn't mind, but Otto Kalman Ponatter did. Otto disliked Eva's habits, and there was nothing he could do about it.

Otto, at 45, now lives here atop a 2,000-foot mountain an hour's drive southward from Munich, quite satisfied to be forgotten as the tailor for Hitler's mistress, the woman der fuehrer married in the last days of the crumbling Nazi reich.

Otto is a good enough tailor to get along without such a reputation, and in present-day Germany such a reputation wouldn't help anyway.

He knew Eva Braun way back as just another girl in Munich.

"She was pretty, with a nice figure," Ponatter said in an interview. "But she was what you would call a pretty shopgirl, nothing unusual. You never would turn around to look at her twice."

Eva never knew what was good and what wasn't, Otto said. As for style, Ponatter is like most tailors. He imposes his own ideas until you let him know about yours. Then he brightens like a pitcher who has hit a home run.

Otto kept waiting for Eva to express just one solid thought about style, but she never did.

"She didn't have any idea," he said disgustedly.

Eva was sent to Otto by an artist. SS or gestapo men always were with her when she came to his shop. She never said "Heil Hitler" like everyone else, just "Good Morning," or something like that. Apparently she was the only person in Germany those days who could open a conversation without heiling Hitler.

Before that, Otto had heard about Eva. She worked as an apprentice for a Munich photographer, Heinrich Hoffman, who was Hitler's personal photograhper for years.

Hoffman remembers Eva as a worker on his staff, too, just as Otto remembers her.

"I never could impress on her that she should make a good appearance," says Hoffman. "Her neck was never quite clean."

In time, Hoffman introduced Eva to Hitler. The fuehrer was intrigued. They stayed together to the end.

Ponatter wishes that he never had seen her, professionally. Germans on short rations in bombed out cities don't like to think about Hitler or anyone tied up with him.

Scarcely a day goes by without something reminding Otto that he never should have hitched his wagon to Eva's star.

"You can have her, and Hitler, too," says Otto.

Writer Decides To Try That Whitish Fluid Called Milk

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

WASHINGTON — (AP) — These many years I have held, along with the late Congressman William I. Sirovich of New York, a low opinion of a whitish fluid called milk. Good for babies, perhaps, and kittens, but not for me.

On the eve of prohibition repeal Rep. Sirovich appeared before the house of representatives with a card table upon which he placed three quarts of milk and a few beakers of [illegible]. Mr. Sirovich said, was a [illegible] by cows. He never touched the stuff.

Then he took up a pitcher and poured some in a glass. He poured out its weight from its [illegible] bubbles. He said and I do to him [illegible]

I have [illegible]
